

Laura Goldman, RDN

Laura Goldman is a graduate of Purdue University, having completed her dietetic internship through IUPUI in 2007. She has been practicing locally as a registered dietitian for over a decade and has experience working in both inpatient and outpatient settings. Laura has additionally received training in weight management, renal nutrition, and nutritional management of IBS. She also has an active interest in studying the ethnography of food and nutrition around the world and enjoys surprising our team at Priority Physicians with unique and nutritious snack options.

Laura lives in Indianapolis with her husband, Eric, and their two cats (though Laura would love to own more animals!). In her free time, Laura enjoys traveling, good food, and combining the two whenever possible.
